

What is SynapMod?

SynapMod® (patent pending) is a personal commitment, collaborative task management Internet-based software-as-a-service or iPhone/iPad app that enables people, however dispersed, to communicate, in real time, to achieve specific objectives.

It enables creation of self forming networks without the need for costly software.

It empowers individuals to manage and track their own commitments - those made to others, and those others made to them.

With SynapMod there is no need to make phone calls or send out emails to get instant updates from team members.

Why SynapMod?

SynapMod provides a mobile iPhone/iPad App and Internet-based self-forming Structured Communication Network to enable a comprehensive personal commitment, communication and collaborative task management capability. Either of these could be integrated into the larger toolkit of specialized project management tools to enable before-the-fact notification of potential delays in time for proactive corrective action by all the parties directly affected. A commitment that an individual makes to fulfill a task may more likely be achieved on time, without unnecessary expenditure of resources through use of the Internet-based network.

SynapMod is available on a website as software-as-a-service and on the iPhone and iPad at the Apple Store. It will be available in other forms in the future.

With SynapMod, you and your team will be informed, in real-time, of potential delays or about other issues that may impact you or your team's commitments.

With SynapMod, you create a communication network with everyone doing work in which you or they have a direct interest. When the work is completed, the communication links go away.

With SynapMod Mobile, you can use your iPhone or iPad to:

- Record your own personal and professional commitments
- Reply to and report on requests for commitments sent to you by others
- Request commitments from others for work you need them to do
- Receive reports on commitments from others doing work requested by you
- Receive reports on predecessor commitments of others in which you have an interest

With SynapMod software-as-a-service, you can additionally:

- Assure that any objectives being worked on are in line with the overall corporate objective
- Monitor progress on all objectives in your organizational area of responsibility
- Evaluate the workload of the people who report to you, either directly or indirectly

Who would benefit from using SynapMod?

Management of Business Operations need a comprehensive communication capability for managing personal commitments - those made to others and those made in response - linking directly responsible individuals for interrelated tasks

SynapMod on the Cloud provides a tool for such a comprehensive communication capability

Project leaders need an app for integration into the larger toolkit of specialized project management tools to be informed in real-time by task owners of potential delays of critical tasks that may delay the project in order to take proactive action to remain on track and avoid such a delay.

SynapMod Mobile provides such an app

Task Leaders need an app to provide the means to send and receive information in real time concerning potential delays that may affect completion dates of their commitments, and to request other individuals to accept responsibility for sub-objectives of one or more of their commitments.

SynapMod Mobile provides such an app
